

Morals

Most people would agree that human beings know the difference between right and wrong, or between good and bad actions. Humans may not always choose to do the right thing, but they do have the ability to understand when an action is wrong.

Why might different religious communities or individuals have different views of what is right or wrong?

People with different religions may have different views of what is right or wrong. This is because different religions have different Gods and different rules to follow. Some people believe that any act that goes against what their God has commanded is wrong, no matter what the circumstance is. Others believe that it is important to look at the situation before determining whether something is right or wrong.

RE- The influence of faith on believers

'Our neighbour'

Christians believe in treating everyone with love, kindness and respect. Everybody is your neighbour. 'Treat others as you would like to be treated'.

Stories to know:

The Good Samaritan

The Lost Son

Key Vocabulary	Defintion
morals	Standards of behavior/principles of right and wrong.
Values	Principles or standards of behaviour.
integrity	The quality of being honest and having strong moral principles.
influence	To have an effect on something.
practitioner	a person actively engaged in an art, discipline, or profession
institute	an organization having a particular purpose
discriminate	To treat people differently particularly on the grounds of race, gender or beliefs

Learning Questions:

What is forgiveness?

What are the 10 commandments?

Why might different religious communities or individuals have different views of what is right or wrong?

How can we show integrity in our daily lives?

Do all religions believe in forgiveness?

Why is it important to have beliefs and values?

Forgiveness

Most world religions include teachings on forgiveness, which provide guidance for the practice of forgiveness. The concept of forgiveness might differ, but it still calls for love and pure heart.

- To understand beliefs and teachings
- To understand practices and lifestyles
- To understand how beliefs are conveyed
- To reflect
- To understand values

Organisations which help others

Moral Values

Honesty

Kindness

Integrity

Cooperation

Patience

Love

Faith

The 10 Commandments

